

Scenario: We wish to specify a valid street address.

Let's say, for the sake of this example, to be considered valid, an address must consist of three lines, the first must be a number, the second a string of characters, the third a valid country name.

Scenario: We wish to specify a valid DOB.

Let's say, for the sake of this example, to be considered valid, a DOB must consist of three numeric parts, the first must be a day of the month, the second a month of the year, and the third a 2-digit year number.

Scenario: We wish to specify a valid ID number.

Let's say, for the sake of this example, to be considered valid, an ID number must start with a 6-digit number and end with a letter.

