Fig. S1. Developmental stages of egg chambers. Ovarioles of mature ovaries are characterised by a germarium (G) and a stream of egg chambers at different growth stages (S1–S14, with only S1–S10 illustrated in the diagram). Egg chambers are formed from 15 nurse cells and an oocyte, and are surrounded by follicle cells (Adapted from [64]).